

Unfortunately it seems that the Do Not Call list rarely prevents robocalls. I have been using Nomorobo for about a year and have been delighted with the results. (I heard about it on National Public Radio.) Whenever I hear the phone ring once and stop I know that the system has blocked a spam phone call. Unless the government can provide such a service, please don't inhibit facilities such as Nomorobo. (No system is perfect, and as it is I am still bothered by ones that get through: often heavily accented voices calling from fake phone numbers who claim to be able to "fix a problem" they "have detected with my computer" or offer assistance getting compensation for medical problems I don't have...)

My phone company, Comcast, does nothing to block unwanted, spam-like phone calls. I use a 3rd party service called Nomorobo that works great. Now when these types of calls get trapped by Nomorobo I hear 1 ring. That's how I know it's working. Before turning this free service on, I was constantly getting calls from parties that do not follow the Do-Not-Call rules.

I actually had to pay for Caller ID simply because I couldn't stand the constant barrage of unwanted solicitations. And because of the duplicitous phone numbers and names, I'm still constantly duped! The Robocalls are making me crazy! I've tried to get humans, beg them to take me off their lists, advised them I'm on a No Call list (ha ha ha ha ha), reported repeatedly to the government (until I heard even the government can't do anything about the violators), and now I give up. I just don't answer my phone. PLEASE GIVE US NOMOROBO! It can't be any worse than what I've already got!

Denise Dimin

Between the DONOTCALL list and NOMOROBO, the number of robocalls has been greatly reduced. Before these 2 products, we would get at least 6 robocalls per day (usually around dinner time). Now we might get one but we can add that number to the list in NOMOROBO and that call does not happen again.

I have no confidence in the phone companies to come even close to giving us the same relief. The phone companies would probably charge us for their inferior "service."

Please do not interfere in our robocall blocking choices.

Sandra Fahrnbruch

We get an average of at least one call daily from advertisers, senior citizen predators and others whose telephone numbers we don't recognize and whose voices represent strangers. There is often a delay of several seconds after we say "hello" until they respond. They sound hurried, foreign and/or too condescending. Please do what you can to amend the regulations that permit "robocall's".

I am writing to let you know that you need to force the providers of telephone service, whether they are telephone companies providing "POTS" - Plain Old Telephone Service, or other companies providing VOIP, such as via cable, fiber optic, etc. to block unwanted calls. I pay for my phone service and I should have control over who calls me. There are far too many scammers that continue to call both my home phone as well as my cell phone, even though both numbers have been on the Do Not Call list for over 8 years. Please do something about this problem.

Anita Miller

Please give consideration to the privacy of telephone service end-users. The use by automated "robocalls" disrupts residents with unwelcome and frivolous calls. If companies are allowed to "robocall" then end-users/residents should be allowed to use "blocking" technology.

I want the right to choose for myself whether or not I would like to allow robocalls. This would apply to both my business and personal lines. I am self employed and I typically get multiple robocalls each day. It has gotten to the point that I now wait for the number to be displayed on my caller ID, take a picture with my cell phone to be able to dial that number back to be taken off their call list.

One of your self proclaimed competencies is "Encouraging the highest and best use of spectrum...." Allowing telemarketers to robocall consumers and businesses could never be considered a "highest and best use". It only benefits the company that is disrupting everyone else.

I urge you to not only allow services like Nomorobo to put an end to unwelcomed interruptions, I also would like to see you make it much easier for consumers and individuals to have their numbers blocked from telemarketing.

My telephone should not be used by telemarketers. This is a personal telephone to conduct my own personal business. Do Not Call lists do not work, especially with computer generated calls. Any caller should be identified by name (most don't do this) and the number should be realistic. My personal space is being invaded by companies that I have no interest in dealing with. This IS NOT MARKETING SPACE. With CID I can give you a list of callers, but why is it up to me to make this list? Please don't allow telemarketers to use my telephone number. PLEASE!

Dear FCC,

It really is criminal that this is what the phone system and the caller id system has been allowed to turn into. I ask who is responsible ?

I just received a call from a local number with the caller id of "New York" against my better judgment I answered thinking it was from a local customer. It was not a customer but a telemarketer, in a pleasant way I asked to be put on the do not call list she did not respond but hung up without any comment. I called the number back and it is a non working number, a fake number!

Why are they allowed to fool me with a spoofed caller id. How can their phone call be legitimate when they are faking who they are and why they are calling..

The FCC is in charge of protecting the citizens and users of the airwaves and systems. I call on you to do your job and protect me against spam calls and caller id spoofing scammers!

Thanks to Nomorobo! At least they are doing something to help the problem!

we believe that it should be our right to control which calls we receive and to prevent harassing and unsolicited calls from bringing into my home. well I do believe in the right of anyone to place a call, I also believe in the right of anyone to block an unwanted call. we believe that these telephone calls from telemarketers are harassing, annoying, unwanted, and sometimes invasion of privacy. This is my second piece about Robo Callers. It occurred to me that if they say we cannot block their calls, they are actually saying we must let them intrude into our homes via phone. I do not like the robo calls at all. I think its just a waste of time. They call all hours of the night and wake the whole house up. Please stop the robo calls

I get up to 20 calls a day from telemarketers asking for nothing but money. This is not just once in awhile, but every single day 365 days a year. Without robocall blocking I would be extremely annoyed and harassed by these telemarketers trying to sell me something I do not want or need simply for them to make billions on people who are gullible and uneducated. I want to be able to block robocalls. Nomorobo has brought some peace to my family that we didn't have before we started using it to block calls. The blocked call still rings once but at least there is not the hang-up with the accompanying buzz and dead line sound. I have all of our phone numbers on the the Do Not Call Registry but as you are or should be aware, a lot of robocallers don't care!

Please do make the robocall blocking solutions more easily accessible to consumers. The Do Not Call list is a pathetic joke. Telemarketers continually call and obfuscate their identity by manipulating the caller ID information.

We should have tools available to allow the blocking of these calls.

Since I have gotten VOIP through Verizon the robo calls have been non-stop and Verizon doesn't seem to care to stop or filter them. Nomorobo works. Do not do anything to hinder this service.

Several years ago I recall an 'ordinance' being mentioned on tv news regarding it being 'illegal' for 'machines to talk to (and fill up) a private answering machine'. I must have dreamed it, for that stemming of the telemarketing tide NEVER materialised.

Now, this service company 'Nomorobo' has managed to eliminate up to 90% of UNWANTED automated telemarketing for me...ESPECIALLY the repeated calls (for SIX YEARS now) skip-tracing a person I have never met or heard of in my life! I plan to continue using them.

--I-- pay for MY phone service for MY purposes...I DO NOT PAY FOR A PHONE TO INVADE MY LIFE with UNWANTED ADVERTISING!!!

Telemarketing (and I have worked as one!) is a concept that has outlived it's usefulness, and I will be more than happy (if needed) to discontinue my phone service to stop it!

If the phone companies do not want to block robocalls, and the only reason I can see is that it would cost them for more equipment, then why can't we have them blocked? I use Nomorobo to block these calls and it works extremely well. One ring and the call is gone. Finally, an answer to a big annoyance. I highly recommend it.

When the telephone companies start paying my telephone and cellphone bills, they can decide who is allowed to call me. Nomorobocall.com is the most relevant and effective service in managing no gets to talk with me and reduce the enormous stress of unwanted calls from unknown people. I was at the point of cancelling my home phone because it rings day and night with unwanted and annoying calls. I even have a private number but it seems everyone has it and uses it even when I try to get off their list! Some people/organizations are really rude, especially if you don't want to donate money right then!! I must say that the worst offenders in this regard are some of the political calls.

My home is where I want to feel safe and relaxed and do whatever I choose, it's my sanctuary! I don't need to be harassed by every cause that feels entitled to my money. I dreaded the sound of my phone ringing, I got angry and stressed out!!

Then I found Nomorobo.....Aaaaahhhh, now I can relax again. I have my phone back. Thank you Nomorobo!!!

Please, please don't stop this call blocking! After all, it's my home & my phone and I pay for it. Why should I be bothered by people I don't know and causes that I have no interest in? I feel that this problem has become so bad that it's actually now at the point of harassment. Sometimes the same number will show up three or four times in one day!

Finally, on the positive side, there is finally a way to stop these types of calls if we choose to which I think is fantastic. It has helped me tremendously so why on earth would anyone try to stop this, unless we don't have the right to any privacy anymore, even in our own homes.....

I am sick of my phone continually ringing with unwanted solicitation calls. I actually feel harassed in my own home. All of my calls now go to The answer machine before so I can clear them. Also, when the phone rings it stops all activity until the call is cleared. A major distraction

I have to fend off telemarketer calls, even though I'm on the DO NOT CALL list. I have sent several complaints to you about that with no results. The robocalls are even worse and more annoying. Please allow us to choose who calls and stop their techniques of using MY caller id when they call. When you call the numbers back to find out who it is, they tell you there is no such number or it is not in service.

I have used Robocall and I have been saved HUNDREDS of nuisance calls from automated telemarketers. I previously had registered for the "Do Not Call" list through the FCC, but telemarketers ignore the list. The extreme increase with automatic dialing phone calls has surpassed being a nuance. It is even more aggravating when it is that these calls are scams. It is really pathetic in that your office does not protect us from these unauthorized solicitation phone calls as outlined under the Federal Do Not Call legislation.

When is it that you plan to do something in regards to this and uphold the laws that are in place?

I think these robocalls should be outlawed and those who continue to do this should be prosecuted. I signed up for the "Do not call list" and it is very clear they have a total disregard for the law. When they call and I ask them to put me on their do not call list they laugh, curse and continue to call anyway. My husband and I are senior citizens and really do not deserve to be treated by these groups of people who usually call trying to scam information out of us to steal our identities. I get calls telling me I can lower my credit card rates and I don't have a credit card !!! Really!!!! It's just not right. to have be subjected to this annoyance.

Nomorobo is the best thing in Telcom for the residential customer in years. Please do not let the telcoms cater to telemarketers. As a citizen and consumer I should have the ability and the right to block annoying and unwanted calls. Don't I have any rights???

Joan Gunn

I am on the do not call list. And yet somehow I still got several telemarketing calls every day. Then I signed up for nomorobo and now I only get them once in a while.

Anyone with a land line phone can tell you that telemarketers simply do not quake in fear of the "do not call list" but most of them seem unwilling to incur the expense of having live people dialing phones to make telemarketing calls.

Why in the world would you prevent a service like nomorobo? If you are going to get rid of robocalls then please put some teeth (as in prison time and a sufficient budget for enforcement) in the "do not call" list.

If you get rid of robocall blocking without putting some teeth in the "do not call" list, then I intend to simply get rid of my landline altogether. I would be a fool to pay $30/month to provide telemarketers a way to disturb my dinner almost every night.

Chris Lieu

We do not want to have any robocalls or telephone solicitors invading the privacy of our home. We consider our phone numbers to be private. Our home number is not listed. Family and friends are the only people who have our phone number. My husband and I would never be interested in receiving any solicitations by phone. We need you to respect our wishes as consumers and payers for the services that we want to receive. We should not be receiving unwanted calls that we have not requested nor solicited. As a new resident living in Florida, I have received more robo/telemarketer calls in the past 2 years than the entire 40 adult years that I lived in Illinois. This is ridiculous when I find that I can't sleep in my retirement due to unwanted calls happening before 12:00 noon and also at dinner time. The constitution is to protect people's rights and does not state anything about allowing corporations the right to harass us.

Ocoee, Florida

No matter what I do, such as the do not cal registry and asking to be removed from call lists, the calls still persist. The callers are often rude and vulgar. My phone company refuses to offer products or methods to combat the robocalls. No more robo has been the only thing to bring us relief.

Nights and weekends were becoming unbearable over the last few years because of the junk and robocalls on our landline phone. The companies making these calls were clearly ignoring the Do Not Call list. It came to the point that over 90% of the calls we would receive on our landline phone were robocalls or junk calls. We seriously considered not having a landline phone anymore because of the constant nuisance. So if the phone companies are trying to prevent services like NoMoRobo being available to consumers, they should know that NoMoRobo is the reason why I (and likely many other consumers) decided NOT to discontinue having a landline phone. Now, NoMoRobo has returned peace of mind to our household. The government should encourage innovation such as NoMoRobo and other robocall blocking products which empower the consumer.

I just completed reporting or blocking at least 25 ROBO or unsolicited phone calls since 01/06/2015.

It took my time and my energy to do this in an effort to stop the almost constant unsolicited phone calls that we are receiving on our home telephone.

The last I heard it was still illegal to harass people so why is it okay for a business or a person to consistently make ROBO calls to my private home telephone? I find it hard to believe that with today's technology there is not a simple solution to stopping unsolicited ROBO calls. As far as I am concerned it is an invasion of my privacy.

Let us block robocalls. I want there to be more services to stop illegal telemarketing calls like Nomorobo does. Customers should not have to put up with telemarketing/robocalls if they choose not to. Please ensure that customers can opt-out of this unwanted harassment by creating and permitting the use of services that make this possible. Thanks.

If these so called companies can call us and inconvenience with the tap of a button. Then we should have the right to have who we want to represent us from stopping them.

I believe that I have the right to stop any calls that I want because I pay the phone bill. If the FCC wants to pay my phone bill or if the robo callers want to pay it then they have a say. I work from home and listening to my phone ring constantly during the day with sales calls or plain BS is ridiculous! The callers do not have the right to disturb me day and night. You must allow robocall blocking!

They are invasive and always happen when I'm in the middle of something important, or when I don't feel well and I'm trying to sleep, or when I'm depressed or when I'm trying to do my child's homework, or trying to cook etc. They drive me so crazy some times I end up shouting down the phone or crying.

I would like for some of the TCPA law to apply to me and who can auto-dial my phone number; I actually support a dialer platform for collections and we strictly follow the TCPA guidelines, even though it is more targeted towards telemarketers.

I am extremely frustrated with the amount of telemarketing calls I receive from unsolicited businesses that have data mined my information (e.g., roofers and roof inspectors - due to recent hail damage in my area); not to mention the amount of scammers that call me about an IRS claim against me or grants available to me (all from India), as well as, the really old 'Windows Support' call for a virus found on my system and of course the 'Credit Card Services' to lower your interest rate... I receive more than 10 calls a day, from companies that are not associated to any suppliers/vendors that I currently do business with (of which, I have opted out of any third-party contact). Without the aid of a robo-blocking system, I was receiving more than 30 calls a day, from these types of call centers and have truly appreciated the reduced amount of calls, due to Nomorerobo; and with each report of a non-blocked number the amount of calls continues to go down each week.

We as consumers, should have the choice as to who contacts us (I believe that this should be inclusive of political and even charitable parties); and more importantly, we should also have the ability to decide whether we want to implement a simultaneous ring with blocking features. I have spread the word about Nomorerobo, and everyone that has enrolled, is very pleased to hear their phone ring once – “one more telemarketer blocked!”

I am still receiving calls from collection agencies for the same people since February 10th 2013 when I moved here from another state and got this number. Stop the Robocalling. PLEASE!

I am writing regarding my support for robocall blocking products.

I am currently using Nomorobo and I know they are preventing many calls that end up wasting space on my voicemail but there seems to be many calls that get around it somehow and I sometimes can receive up to 10 or more blank voicemails a day and that's with me catching some of the calls and hanging up on them myself!

This is not fair to consumers. Please, you have to force the phone companies to provide robocall blocking solutions to consumers! These robocallers are invading our lives.

Thank you for protecting the rights of consumers.

North Reading, MA

It is ridiculous to be called repeatedly for having "won a free cruise for two" or "a brand new car" or "free service for a year". Over and over and over again. AND if one ever accidentally answers the phone on one of these, the amount of calls from that robo company increases exponentially!!! This is a severe invasion of privacy. To have my family time, or my reading time, or even my chore time interrupted again and again and again is absolutely un-American. Companies should not have the right to do this!! Please help!

The Do Not Call Phone List DOES NOT WORK. I still get unwanted solititations. With Nomorobo, my problems were solved. The robo calls were stopped. Robo callers were even using my phone number as their return number.I believe this is called spoofing. Bottom line is to ALLOW phone companies to have Nomorobo available to their customers.

Gary J Crozier

Dear FCC

Please allow Nomorobo to stay in effect. As far as your do not call registers, it is a farce. After I request to be put on a do not call list the vendor will hang up. And shortly after that you will receive a new call from a different number, but same vendor. I have even gone as far as going on my computer to block numbers and still get calls from, a different number. You should allow your local companies to set it up so if we want to block a call we don't have to go on line but right from our phone.

I was so frustrated by robocalls, that I would answer only the calls from the numbers identified in my phone's contact list. Finally, I am relieved to see that there is a solution to this problem faced by millions of people. I installed NOMOROBO on my land line, but I still cannot install on my cell phone as the carrier (Verizon Wireless) does not support NOMOROBO.

Please allow them to support this feature that I'm sure millions of people would like to use. Thank you very much.

For years, we've used the no-call lists, advertiser opt-outs and the online FCC complaint forms. It's been an exercise in futility as robocalls and advertising had continued unabated. The NoMoRobo product has blocked a majority of those calls.

I agree with the need to force the phone companies to provide robocall blocking solutions to consumers. I am currently on the National Do Not Call List, but I continue to receive robocalls on both my home phone and my family's cell phones. I submit complaints of these calls to the National Do Not Call List. Apparently, these measures do not deter these companies from continuing to robocall. I also currently try to block these numbers, but both the landline & cell phone companies only allow to block five to ten numbers. Please help to force the phone companies to provide robocall blocking.

Robocallers may occasionally be legitimate businesses, but seldom are. For the most part, they are scam artists and we should be able to prevent them from intruding on our lives through our telephones. Thank you for your interest in helping keep the phone system useful for American citizens by supporting the development of robocall blocking solutions. I can think of no plausible reason to allow telemarketers to harass, hang up on me or generally ignore my requests for them to please stop calling in attempts for me to purchase their products. They even use phony caller ID names and numbers, calling nonstop in sheer disdain as if my phone services are at their disposal.

It is crucial that action is taken immediately to halt this action. Please look into this matter with a sense of urgency, this is not what taxpayers should have to endure.

The "800 service" calls occur from early morning to late evening. Such a nuisance, interrupting all sorts of things, even though we screen them and do not pick up. I would also stop political calls, since it absolutely is a mark against any candidate who wishes to interrupt my life that way.

Please allow the blocking of robocalls. I am constantly getting calls from scammers regarding "problems with my computer" and "Rachel, from cardholder services" and someone reportedly from the IRS regarding taxes. I want privacy and I am concerned about identity theft. The calls come into my landline and also my cell phone (eating away my paid minutes). Please help to stop these calls.

Frances Craig

We get at least a half-dozen robo calls a week from "Card Services" alone -- whether as Card Services or some proxy name -- sometimes two or three in one day.

That is just one of many robocallers. There is no sense in this. We should be allowed to block them.

John & Carole Varela

There is no redeeming value to robocalls and other unsolicited calls. The consumer should be able to block numbers by area code, by area code/exchange or by the whole number. In addition, it would be nice if telephone companies were banned to sell these numbers. This added revenue can't make up for the constant inconvenience to the consumer, right?

I know, this is generated by prompting by the folks at nomorobo.com which I use almost daily. I am happy to tell you one of my problems in blocking one particular caller which I have reported to nomorobo.com about seven times during the past few days as of 15 January 2014.

The caller, Unknown Name at 301-804-9183, apparently finds a way around Nomorobo's call interruption capabilities. Except for this one, they are good at interrupting calls from numbers that I "block" through their web site.

I can completely block callers by listing them on my Verizon.com web site, and I did block 301-804-9183 on Verizon.com. However, in order to do that I had to delete another obnoxious caller from the list of 10 numbers that I can block on Verizon.com.

I do not understand why Verizon and other phone companies cannot allow me to list as many callers as I want to block. I should not need to buy a separate device to connect to my phone in order to block unwanted callers.

I also do not understand why the FCC does not stop the robo callers. Why is it that I have to put up with calls from businesses, legitimate or scammers, that I do not want to hear from after I tell them to take me off their call list, and especially since I am on the Do Not Call List?

The Do Not Call List is almost worthless. It seems as if businesses pay no attention to the Do Not Call List, because they know that nothing will happen to them if they if they continue to pay no attention to the List.

Thank you.

I am a senior, and my husband is a person with a disability, which includes low sugar episodes due to diabetes. During these episodes, he is disoriented. One such time, he answered the phone when a high pressure sales person was asking him for personal information and, not being lucid, he began to provide his personal information, but then stopped when he became aware that he was starting to provide his social security number over the phone to an unknown person. He recalls then that the person started to pressure him as to why he stopped providing the rest of his SSN; my husband then realized he had a low sugar reaction, and hung up the phone. As a senior, I support the Nomorobo because it enables me to block sales calls, dealing with high pressure sales persons, and uninvited solicitations. I have a "No Solicitors" sign on my front door and, in the county where I live, salespersons and solicitors must respect my desire not to be contacted. The sign works great and keeps them from knocking on my door. It seems to me that having Nomorobo is the same as putting a "No Solicitors" sign on my telephone, signaling to solicitors that I do not want to be contacted. Please note I wish to remain anonymous because I am disclosing medical information. Thank you and I hope you are able to continue the Nomorobo program. I would think that Seniors would especially appreciate it because they are so often preyed upon.

Please do not stop my ability to control the amount of unsolicited phone calls that come into my home. It would be one thing if I could answer them and tell the caller myself to keep me off of their list; but I cannot because of robo-calling. The numerous Robo calls we get everyday are a complete waste of time & invads our privacy. I do not understand the reason for them since you almost always get a hang up if you answer it. And if someone does answer,It is usually a scam of some sort. I was able to get Nomorero bo with my carrier on my landline &'it has been a God Send. The only reason we still have a landline is that I do not want to give out my cell number to just anyone for fear I would start receiving these annoying calls on my cell phone. I am firmly supportive of actions that allow consumers to control robocalls and telemarketers. There is currently no accountability or limit on their ability to anonymously abuse millions of citizens with annoying, aggravating and blatantly hostile calls usually during the dinner and evening hours when we should have peaceful respite from invasions of our privacy after long arduous days of labor.

I should be able to block robocalls and telemarketers through my telephone service, both landline and cell, since the "Do Not Call List" is toothless and ignored by these parasites.

I would encourage the FCC to allow citizens to have some degree of control over robocalls. I consider them intrusive and unwanted and place a significant value on the ability to block them. In this era of endless communications it's important to be able to maintain some degree of comfort. While I have registered for the DNC list, I never really expected these types of calls to stop completely, I believe now registering was a pointless exercise. There were days of the week that my phone would start ringing at 9:00am and continue all day until the early evening.

My phone has internal capacity to block thirty numbers; that capacity was filled in less than a month. My carrier is Verizon and while they are willing to listen to my complaints, they seem to be unwilling to protect me from what I consider harassment.

It's only since I've signed on with nomorobo that I've had any relief. As I'm writing this my phone has rang twice, both calls were blocked by nomo. Based on the caller id, one call was a credit card scam and the other was the bogus fundraising for Children's Cancer.

My feeling is if I can't be protected by the government or my phone carrier, then I should be able choose my own solution. Nomorobo has made a huge impact on my phone experience.

Robocalls are really an invasion of privacy and should not be legal period. They are a complete miss use of the telephone, and reduce the quality of life in general. Additionally, I should not have to take any action to avoid this nuisance, instead, those who wish to receive these calls, (if anyone actually does) should have to take the action to sign up for them.

Tired of robo calls.Many calls in a day"

New York

We hate robocalls. We used to get 3 a day on average. We have used nomorobo for many months and now get about 1 unblocked call a week. These unwanted calls are very annoying.. As seniors, we like to take an afternoon nap. The calls are disruptive and tie up our phone line, which has caused us to miss calls from our disabled son. We see no value whatsoever to taking away our ability to block the calls we do not want to receive. I strongly believe the FCC should do everything in its power to promote the use of robocall blocking products.

Robocalls are a major annoyance and clearly violate the "do not call list" bans in place through the FTC. I have been using NOMOROBO for some time to block some of the calls, but many still get through. The callers use various means to disguise their identities on the caller id function, including made up caller id's. It is very important to expand protections for consumers to block robocalls.

Thank you for your yes decision. Mrs J.

I have subscribed to "nomorobo" for about one year now. It is a godsend for me. I am 78 years old and am no more bothered by ridiculous calls all day long. I can not always get to the phone when it rings, but I no longer have to wonder if I have missed an important call from my family. I lost a daughter to cancer two years ago, and was always concerned if missed calls were important calls about her or her health. I have other family members whom I worry about and can now feel assured that most calls are worth answering, thanks to NOMOROBO.

I find Robo calls the most annoying interruption in my daily activity around the house. I am so thankful that I learned about using my telephone company's ability to reroute such calls after the first ring. Before doing so I would listen to 6 or seven rings and have an angry face; now I listen to 1 ring and have a smile on my face. America's mental health can be improved with Robocall blocking.

Stop all robocalls to my phones. I am 93 years old, in a wheel chair, use a hospital bed to sleep. Calls from these cockroaches phone at all hours, including sleep time, meal time, bathing time, bathroom time, exercising time and recreational time. They try to scam us senior citizens with their promotions. There is no way I know of to report them when they become abusive as I am unable to get their phone number. When I put the ten phone numbers on the "Do not call" list they change their numbers. I am unable to prevent their obnoxious calls. It is up to you, dear FCC, to take decisive permanent action to put these robocallers out of business now and forevermore.

I pay my phone company, AT&T, a lot of money each month for my phones. I consider it not only despicable, but ludicrous that they are allowed to decide which calls I am allowed to block. Robocalls disrupt my household on a daily basis. They start at 8am and don't end until 8 or 9pm - seven days a week. It is ridiculous. The no call list means nothing to these clowns. I demand the right to manage my own calls.

Sherma Dunagan

I think NOMOROBO is great! It has cut down on annoyance calls by a lot, so I believe the callers are getting the message: DON'T BOTHER ME! The National and State 'Do not call' lists are worthless, individuals need a better answer. Just a little while ago I got a call that NOMOROBO didn't block (there was no response from the New York caller), so I will enter that number into the NOMOROBO database. Telephone service is a convenience and a necessity, it should not be abused by telemarketers and robocallers.

I am firmly against robocalls, and I support any means of blocking them. Technology is a wonderful thing, but much like any other tool it can be misused. As clever as the people are who invented robocalls, so too are hackers clever; both using technology for their own purposes to the annoyance of others along with an invasion of others' privacy.

moorestown, nj

I pay a sizeable sum for the convenience of having a cell phone. What is not convenient is the new onslaught of robocalls. While my carrier allows me to block calls - my land line provider on allows something like twelve numbers to be blocked. In either case, I don't answer calls from numbers I don't recognize, then I google the phone numbers and if I determine that it is a robocaller, I then have to go back and block the number. Frequently, the same companies use multiple numbers, so I end up repeating this procedure over and over. I want it to stop. My phone is my phone - not a method of advertising.

I respectfully request that you permit robocall blocking products to be used. We must get at least 10 robocalls daily, and it is extremely annoying to have to get up and listen to repeated sales pitches that have no interest for us. Lawbreakers who violate the Do Not Call list and criminal scammers are allowed full access to Americans personally paid- for communications equipment without any restrictions or consequences. Our phones ring several times a day with telemarketers, robocalls and criminal trying to get our credit card numbers and SS #'s. We all assumed this was the job of the FCC. Is there ANY question the American public wants this invasion and harassment stopped?! Really? This has been an escalating situation for at least 4 years and NOW you are finally looking into it? Do you really need to ask if there should be robocall blocking products available? The question is- who now will make money off of these products or will they be free? The final insult to Americans would be that the FCC and cable companies continue to do nothing to halt this criminal activity and the American people would now have to PAY to stop it. Geez, I wonder who will make (even more) money from that? I believe the word is extortion.

I am really tired of the spam and phishing robo calls, that is almost all of my home phone calls I received anymore.

The phone company states they can not do anything about it and the "do not call" registry unfortunately on assists in reducing the calls from companies that actually follow the law. (Meaning it is a joke at best)

I am sick and tired of them! I now even know what time of day I'll be receiving certain call. They're scammers and don't care about bothering people. It costs them nothing and you can't get to them.

Nomorobo is a very effective way to reduce worrisome robotcalls. I have tried all methods use by law to stop them but to no avail. I get very few now becuase of my use of Nomoro. Please allow them to keep on doing the wonderful job of protecting us from robocalls.

Please keep Nomorobo. in place. It has served me well in keeping unwanted phone calls from my home. When you are in your 70's it is nice not to be awoken at 9 AM for a call you would not have responded to anyway... one ring it is gone with Nomorobo. .

Dave Schroeder

I don't buy things based on a random phone call. Some vulnerable elders do and they become broke and need government help in existing. I hate blind sales calls and in particular the automated "robot" calls. I see no reason that I should have my solitude interrupted by these calls.

Sheila Parks

Please do not allow the phone companies ,take nomorerobo, services away. I receive per day 7 unwanted callers that I have been unable to stop. I have filed complaints with the local police department to stop the callers. They asked that I call the phone company. Nomorerobo at least stop the callers after the first ring. That the best I have been able to get. Please let us continue to have calls stopped.

Even though my phone numbers are on both my state and the national do not call lists, I continue to receive numerous unsolicited and unwanted robocalls. I just signed up for nomorobo for my home phone, which I learned was available for me when I was researching yet another unsolicited call. Unfortunately, nomorobo is not available for the carriers of my wireless phones. As a consumer, I should have the right to block any and all robocalls. Please clarify and change any rules necessary to allow consumers to block unwanted calls.

Rick Adams

Robo calls are the modern day equivalent of the door-to-door salesman. They are annoying, they are invasive, and the purveyors of snake oil have absolutely no respect for consumers. In my opinion, the Federal Do Not Call Registry is a total sham, completely ineffective and of no threat to the Robo callers. While the 'call blocking' feature on phones can be of help, it does not eliminate the annoyance and can be circumvented. I would urge the FCC to take action against these daily nuisances.

WG Selley

Robocalls are very annoying. I pay my phone bill every month and I should be able to decide who can and cannot call me. As a consumer, it is my right to have these annoying calls blocked.

I am fed up! Every time we see a number to call to take us off these Robo Call Lists, I have faithfully entered all our home phone and cell numbers to no avail!!! We're retired!! We got out of the Rat Race and now it is invading our own home! Can't something be done?

Treva mcCarthy

this is my phone and I do not want unwanted calls, like robocall, I want to block these calls ,I should have the right to block them valparaiso,in.

Please do not restrict the controls that we can apply to the telecommunication services that we pay for. By applying 'smart' technologies like robocall blockers, people can continue to have a choice in who can interrupt and ring their telephone line throughout the day. Just like being able to choose what TV and radio stations to enjoy and when, we should also be able to choose how the telephone service is used in our homes. Continuing to allow services like Nomorobo to exist provides us with these critical choices.

Respectfully,

I keep getting robo calls from a credit card company. My cell phone is private. How is this company getting my number. I am on the "do not call list". These people are rude, nasty AND keep calling. When I call back, the phone is disconnected. 360-322-1124, 207-738-5788 are the numbers sharon

I am 75 and when the phone rings not knowing if my family members or friends are calling I stop what I am doing and hurry to answer the phone. I do have caller ID and don't answer from numbers I don't know but this is frustrating especially if I am upstairs or in the basement doing laundry and of course could be dangerous for me. The times I have answered some of these calls they are either selling something I would never buy or asking for donations that I would not or could not donate to. I pay for my phone service and I believe that only people I have shared my number with are the ones that I want to call me. I should have this right.

I'm fed up with being inundated with worthless "offers" from companies. It disrupts my day to day life in the most irritating way possible. At least a live person will leave a message, with robocalls I'm left with multiple missed calls from mystery numbers. It's bs!

Do not fold to special interest groups like the telephone companies. Do your duty and allow consumers to use the NO MORE ROBO CALL system to stop junk phone calls.

If the FCC can not enforce a 'no-call' law, let others do it for you.

Very few things are more annoying than receiving a "robocall" from ANY organization about any subject.
PLEASE put an end to this practice.

I have lost another of our freedoms by being annoyed by ROBO CALLS at all times of the day. I am 82 years old and it is a physical disturbance to get up to answer the phone and discover that no one is there.

These robocalls are driving me crazy. They are so annoying. I can only block 20 numbers on our phones and 12 on our phone service. It is not enough because the callers keep changing their numbers. Please approve a blocking service that will allow you to block unlimited unwanted robocalls. Thanks.

We have used Nomorobo for a year now in our household. It has dramatically reduced the number of nuisance robocalls we receive daily. I even report robocalls that do get through, if their number shows up on caller ID, to Nomorobo.

I hope you will continue to promote robocall blocking. Hopefully this will also reduce the number of scammer operations.

Please require all phone companies to provide robocall blocking solutions to consumers.

My 94 year old mother is constantly being disturbed by robocalls, (sometime very early in the morning and sometimes very late at night). Even though we have registered her phone on the "do not call list" she still gets about 3-6 robocalls per day!

Thank you.

Robo Call Blocking s a complete failure. I've tracked all calls since 7/12/2013 until 1/15/2014 and have had a total of 1946 ROBO calls in that period (over 3 per day on average, including weekends and holidays). That includes auto-dialed numbers where upwards of five attempts to call my number in a one minute period.

The largest offender is the Credit Card Services with upwards of 600 attempts during that period from multiple spoofed numbers. I've filed multiple complaints with the DNC registry about this and other services but the calls keep coming.

I've been on the DNC list since day one and verify my number is still on that list every couple of years.

As far as I am concerned the Do-Not-Call list is a failure.

Roy Nelson
Santa Clara, CA

As of today, I've had over 1,000 annoying robo calls to my cell phone. I've had my phone ring at anytime of the day or night. The phone is turned on at all hours of day because it is my only line of communication to my family and friends. I'm also disabled and many of times when I try and get to my phone, it stops ringing or it is a pre-recorded message when I answer. I suffer enough, but to have and try and answer your phone and on the other end is a message on trying to sell you something you can't afford anyway. Please pass the law to stop these annoying calls. Maybe these companies will go out and hire "people" to do the job of selling their products. I also believe people should now vote on election day not to elect the senator or house rep. who votes for such big business practices!

I am tired of receiving these calls even though I registered on the do-not-call list. Even when I answer and say I do not wish to be contacted again, they still call. Why is that so bad FCC?

we receive computer generated calls everyday even though we are on a no-call list. Even when we are able to talk with a person on the line and ask them to remove our name from the list, we still get the calls. Please restrict these calls and confront the organization that puts these call through.

I cannot stand the years of daily robot calls and have tried everything including using Comcast blocking feature up to 25 numbers and now NoMoRoBo. The Comcast blocking works , but the robot callers change their so often that it is hard to keep up with the numbers. NoMoRoBo is more interactive and tends to stop (after 1 ring) the newer numbers. The robot callers act with complete impunity and need to be dealt with somehow.

Please stop the robotic telephone calls. My family is currently enrolled on the DoNot Call registry. We update our request on annual basis as required. Our telephone company tells us there is nothing they can do because these are computer telephone calls. A couple of months ago these robo callers started using our local area code and the person who's number it is shows up on the caller ID. It's extremely disconcerting to see your own name and telephone number showing on your caller ID and it's a robo calling telephone solicitor. It makes me wonder how many other individuals are receiving robo calls from our telephone number.

Marlinton, WV

As an elderly citizen, I strongly support the blocking of calls by Robocall.

It has made our dinner time far more civilized as well as made my life safer in that I can tell a robocall (allows only one ring) so I'm not jumping up to hurry to the kitchen to answer the phone for some stupid computer call. I have trouble moving around so it is a godsend for me.

The old 'do not call' registry helped up to a point but it was easy to circumvent by savvy marketers. Robocall blocking products compliments and exceeds the 'do not call' registry.

Kenneth Norrod
Dallas, Texas

Block them by all means. I had my phone set up to block them and it worked for about 2 weeks and then it quit working. It took several calls with my service with Comcast before I was finally told that the problem was nationwide. It's still not working & wondering why not. I am so sick of all of the robocalls we receive. It was great when they were blocked. This is my phone, not the governments and if I choose to block calls it should be my choice, NOT theirs. Please block them!

I strongly support the need for blocking services such as Nomorobo. My time at home is my time, and I deeply resent unsolicited intrusions on my time because somebody is trying to stick their hands in my pocket. This includes not only commercial enterprises looking to make a sale but also political parties and political action committees seeking not only my money but also my vote. I have a brain, I follow the news and I am perfectly capable of making my own choices on who or what to vote for without the unwanted assistance of some political hack. I am registered with the Do Not Call Registry but that unfortunately does not extend to political campaigns. (Hmm, I wonder if the fact that the law governing who can and cannot be required to follow the Do Not Call Registry was written by greedy self-serving politicians has any impact on the exemption of political parties?)

I think that the ability of the telecom customer to have unwanted solicitation or robo-calls blocked should be a fundamental right. To even suggest this is a freedom of speech issue is ludicrous. How can someone be said to be exercising their freedom of speech if, when they call me to pitch some spiel I couldn't give a rat's a__ about, I, after some carefully worded epithets, slam the phone in their ear? All phone carriers should be required to offer a blocking service to their customers that blocks robo-calls regardless of the source. I absolutely abhor advertising. When watching TV I either mute any ads that come on or switch to another channel that isn't running an ad. I don't listen to commercial radio (I either listen to my iPod or NPR), and I use adblocking software on my computer. I most certainly don't want to have some one try to pitch me on my phone.

George Demarest
Bangor, Me.

Is the FCC going to modify the Telephone Consumer Protection Act? Will the FCC allow banks and debt collectors to autodial people without telephone number verification without penalty? This is a terrible idea. The technology and date for verification exists so there is no reason to drop that requirement and/or drop penalties. Auto dialing is a scourge on our most basic of communication systems. The FCC needs to strengthen, not weaken the TCPA.

PLEASE block robocalls including (especially!) those from politicians. I am so tired of paying $$ monthly just to have my phone and privacy hijacked by solicitors and politicians. The default for all contact should be "opt out" even if we "have a business relationship." The bombardment from politicians has become so bad. Voters should not be required to provide a phone number when registering to vote - there ought to be a law against it and a way to remove our phone number from existing voter registrations and/or political call lists.

Vicki Kelley

I implore you to allow telephone carriers to block robocalls. I am retired and receive 3-5 unwanted calls daily. Plus they call back repeatedly despite the fact you tell them you are on the "do not call" list" or tell them you are not interested in having your home remodeled or having solar installed. They lie to you and call at all hours of the day. I have talked with my telephone provider and you can only block 20+ numbers. I have kept a log of all the call center number and they are now at about 200+ different numbers from all over the country. Please help us be able to block unwanted and annoying calls.
Thanks.

Robocalls are a nuisance. My phone rings all day long with these nuisance calls and I don't understand how they get away with it. I'm registered on the National Do Not Call List but it doesn't deter these pests. Nomorobo is essential in stopping these predators from invading our homes and our privacy. Please allow Nomorobo to continue it's efforts in curbing these nuisance calls and doing the fine job that they've been doing.

My household receives 5 or 6 robocalls daily from cleaning services, alarm companies, credit card protection outfits, etc. Thanks to Nomorobo, we now only get 1 or 2 a day. But, more importantly, AT&T our providers only allows 20 blocked numbers. We exhausted that number years ago!!

Robocalls are wasting our time. Constantly getting up to answer these fraudulent calls (YES, THEY ARE ALL FRAUDULENT OPERATIONS) is aggravating, to say the least. Waiting for an important call and having one of these calls come in is not only a waste of time, but could be life threatening. DO SOMETHING ABOUT THIS, PLEASE!!!!

Telemarking is vandalism. They come into my home, unwanted, and rob me of my private time. Four times in the last five day the same telemarketer has called after I have asked him to stop. As a senior citizen my home is my castle. My home allows me to escape overhead helicopter noise, ambulance, fire truck, airplane, and leaf blower noise. But I cant escape relentless phone calls. I need help. What is the purpose of the FCC if not to help with these harassing people? If you don't want to help then we don't need you and need to get someone who will. Its my home and its my phone they are using to harass me.

I would get robocalls originating in Germany, telling me my father was overdue for medical exams. There was no way to stop them, and I still get them every Thursday around 4:10. My father died 2 years ago. This causes anguish to me and my mother - another victim. Why can't this malicious robocall be stopped ?

Rockville, Maryland

When 'Do Not Call' was introduced, phone owners were excited that they finally won't be bothered anymore by telemarketers multiple times a day. Years later, everything is pretty much the same. They found the way to go through loopholes and they keep calling. Causing frustration and scamming people. Then nomorobo came along. So far the experience has been nothing but great. I personally, receive 10 times less unwanted phone calls then I did before. Robocall blocking should be something that everyone are able to use. Bottom line is that it is an optional service and people shouldn't be prevented from not using it. Nomorobo service is a life saver for me and I think that every company should offer it.

They are the most annoying calls ever. Even though I have caller ID and don't answer the phone most often I do have an answering machine which lets these callers know that the number is a number that may eventually be answered. Most of the callers are very rude and more than likely scammers as their phone numbers appear to be phony ones which is something I do not understand. My phone company does not participate in this blocking which I find very disturbing. Obviously the Do Not Call registry didn't work which I registered for. Therefore I think it's about time the Federal Government does something about this.

Until I signed up with Nomorobo, my home phone was ringing about every 15 minutes from 9am until 9pm every day. 99% of those calls were robocalls. After about a month of using the blocking system which hung up on them after one ring, the calls began to become less frequent. Now there are only a few robocalls a day. As a 51 year old, I have seen a lot of changes over time, since I first purchased phone line access through a utility company about 33 years ago. I guess I do not have the exact words to say, or some total logical meaning and flowery phrase, except that the calls are ridiculous. I have always felt that my line is my business and should be private except for 911 notices or emergency or family and friends. The amount of calls that INTRUDE into my home are ridiculous and I resent that companies sell my phone number for marketing. I just plain cannot stand that phone ringing constantly during my time with my family. Thank you

I was so happy when the national "do not call" list became available. Then the robocalls began. I get five to eight robocalls to each legitimate personal call. I hate it -- it is a needless invasion of my privacy. Thank God for NoMoRobo and other robocall blockers.

We are an elderly couple and do not wish to be bothered by the many scam calls we get for credit cards and trips, etc. Stopping these calls will be most appreciated.

We are hoping that NOMOROBO.com will help reduce these annoying calls. We are trying this service as of today.

The robocalls we receive are very annoying, some have even been at 10 pm some as early as 6am What has to be done to stop these? Does anyone actually buy what is being sold? or their services? That would be the last place on earth I would go for anything they have to offer.

I am home most of the day throughout the week. I Am constantly getting unwanted ROBO calls. These call have become very annoying and I would them to stop. What can be done to stop these calls.

I have served as a public guardian working in Illinois and the Metropolitan Chicago area since 1984. I have worked on countless cases where vulnerable adults have been the victims of telephone scams, often having to take legal action to prevent persons from further harm. The Federal Communications Commission needs to empower consumers to fight back against those who prey upon others. Equipping consumers with adequate blocking products would certainly be a step in the right direction. Having personally used NoMoRobo on my home phone, I can see what is possible. Please make such tools available to everyone, at no cost, and do so as soon as possible.

We get enough harassing and scamming calls already even with robocalls being blocked. The phone company should be on the side of the consumer and not the scammers. Let us block as many unwanted phonecalls as we want.

Thanks.

I really would like the ability to block robocalls! Given the huge I/T resources available to carriers, I don't understand why a technical solution, maybe something based on call rejection rates, isn't implemented on a national basis. If enough people call reject a number, it is banned from the network.

Robo calls the most annoying and stupidest invention ever. I don't need " Rachel" to tell me my credit card rate should be lowered or some politician to beg me to vote. Please give me back my phone!

I am a senior citizen. The newest best "invention" is the robocall blocking system I have on my phone. No longer am I hurrying to answer the phone. I listen; if it's more than one ring then I know it's for me and I go answer it. If it's only one ring robocall has stopped it, and I can continue what I'm doing and not have to listen to some recording or a person who is persistent and eventually I just hang up!

Everyone should be allowed to have robocall blocking!!

Irvington, NY

I would like to have the capability to block robocalls. These tools should be free as well. Since I already pay for the privilege of having that phone line I should have some control.

The do-not-call list does not solve the problem of political and survey calls. The people responsible for these calls ignore requests to be taken off their lists.

Not to mention the callers who ignore the do-not-call list altogether.

Easy fix to the robo call issue: add criminal penalties for violating the Do-Not-Call Implementation Act of 2003 (Public Law No. 108-10, was H.R. 395 of the 108th Congress, and codified at 15 U.S.C. § 6101 et. seq.).

It's long past time for the FCC to enforce the laws and regulations against unwanted commercial telephone calls. Your legal authority is ample and your obligation to act in the public interest is clear. Show us that the federal government can act on behalf of the people of the United States -- whose quality of life is daily diminished by the greedy scofflaws who have converted telephones from instruments of communication to means of harrassment -- instead of on behalf of big business with money, lobbyists and lawyers.

Robocalling is a universal scourge, and only you can end it. The failure of government to protect us from predatory uses of modern technology breeds both contempt for government and cynicism about the rule of law.

Best thing I ever did was sign up for nomorobo calls. It has eliminated those very annoying unwanted calls. There was one company that I put into call blocking on our phone that was using different numbers to call. I recorded 11 of them after I realized they were using different numbers. Submitted those numbers to the nomorobo website and haven't heard from that company since- peace of mind! Rather it be landline or cell phone, I should be able to control my phone(s)

I want the FCC to require telephone companies to allow their customers the choice of blocking unwanted calls. Here's why:

I've been on the state and federal do not call lists since they started and that hasn't done any good. Telemarketers and scammers ignore the do not call list rules. They even use fictitious names and numbers on the caller id.

Because I receive so many unsolicited calls, I had to take drastic action to get relief from all the unwanted calls. I basically disabled my phone for incoming calls by turning off the ringer on the phone, turning off the answer machine on the phone, and I had Verizon disable call forwarding to voice mail. To see who called, I periodically check the caller id and try to figure out what calls came in. My phone is essentially useless for incoming calls. This is no way to have a phone operate within my house but I'm sick and tired of all the times I'm disturbed within the sanctity of my home.

Nomorobo has helped reduce the number of calls and we need more of these types of systems.

I always thought this country was based on "government by the people and for the people" and not on what corporations and the wealthy 1% want. If so, the FCC should rule in favor of the people and require telephone companies to block unwanted calls.

I would like to be able to leave my phone on without having to worry about whether I am receiving a legitimate call. I want to be able to block illegal, spoofed number calls whenever I find one. If the FCC and the FTC can't control the illegal use of the phone system, whether land line or VoiP, due to the lack of effort, lack of funding, lack of resources, or lack of technology, I should be able to determine what numbers I want blocked by whatever means I feel is needed.

Robocalls are unsolicited calls that happen almost any time. Even after you ask politely to please stop calling they still call. It's bad enough when your expecting a call because a loved one is sick and instead you get a robocall from a person who barely speaks English and when you ask them not to call again they go on with their sales pitch. Please help stop these calls. If they were a honest company they'd have their true name listed instead of names like "pol contact" or "breast cancer s" or "Private caller" and "unavailable". Sure I can just not answer them, but why not stop them altogether!!!

I don't understand why you have a Do Not Call Registry when so many calls get thru. If the government cannot eliminate these annoying calls, then please allow companies like Nomorobo to help us! Nomorobo has helped tremendously in eliminating unwanted calls that I get several times a week on my home phone. I wish I could use Nomorobo on my cell phone, but Verizon Wireless does not support Nomorobo yet. I get multiple robocalls a day on my cell. This can get costly when you pay for each call. It has gotten to the point where I have to put my phone on do not disturb, missing important calls or texts from my friends and family. By the way, here are just a few numbers from robocalls I got on on my cell phone last week: 361-271-4950 TX USA (3), 508-774-9885 MA USA (2), 321-255-5798 FL, USA, 361-271-4999 TX USA, 215-919-1520 PA USA, 205-632-0015 AL USA. Bet you can't track these calls. How would like your phone to ring this often for no reason. These are the calls that want to reduce my credit card interest rate, but hang up when you try to talk to them. Verizon allows users to block up to 10 numbers at a time, but the numbers keep changing so I am never able to keep up entering them and finally gave up. Something has to be done. Please, please, please let Nomorobo continue to help us!

I'm fed up - I receive robocalls almost daily on my cell phone, despite being on the do not call list. I've reported these calls countless times to you, but gave up because nothing ever happened and I continued to receive them. It's a waste of my time and I only want people who know me and my own bank to call me. Every time I've answered because the area code is one I've done business with, it's a scam anyway. We had nomorobo with a previous cable provider. When we changed providers (and had not thought ahead to change nomorobo) we immediately missed nomorobo. You get used to letting it ring once and then either the caller is announced or nomorobo dispatches it. It would be even better if the cable and phone companies would use the resources they have to attack the miscreants who abuse the law and the phone system by entering the system through VOIP.

Nomorobo is the only solution to the robo call problem and with just a little practice is tremendously useful. I am very thankful for it.

These Robocalls NEED to stop! They are annoying and especially when we PAY monthly for our Phone # to be unlisted yes, we have a landline and cell phones, due to the nature of My husbands work.. They are an invasion of our Privacy, if we wanted their services, we will CONTACT them...Also during Election time we received 126 calls from the republicans, democrats, and whomever,,telling us to vote for their candidate. They said that our phone numbers do not fall under the protection of The Do Not Call List. (I was able to look up the phone # of the solicitor, on my caller ID memory of my landline phone of the person who kept calling every half hour). That is what she told me. And she told me she would keep calling as we did not apply to the Do Not Call List. She REFUSED to take our UNLISTED phone # off of her contact sheet the DMV gave to her, as the DMV collect voters information. So get off of your lazy bums, do your job that you are paid handsomely for, and get rid of these ROBOCALLS. How about you receive them 24 hours a day for months on end! I bet you , you would vote to put a stop to these.....

Dear Commissioners,

Do Not Call Lists, the current solution to preventing telemarketing live and robot calls is partially successful, and should continue, but it is not completely effective. Enforcing do-not-call is not simple and takes time to bring a case to a conclusion.

That is why I support products like nomorobo, assuming they have properly functioning filters, and social media apps that can crowdsource phone numbers which marketers and scammers use to abuse consumers.

Please enable services like nomorobo to do their job, and if you receive complaints about them operating improperly, then issue appropriate regulations. But under no circumstances should you buy the argument from telemarketers that blocking robocalls violates their rights under law. That's not for the FCC to decide, in any case.

Consumers own their phones and pay for their service. Shouldn't they be empowered to judge what calls they do and do not wish to receive?

Geoff Dutton
Belmont MA

Since I have had nomorobo on my phone the robo calls have decreased a lot and I am not answering my phone every time it rings because Nomorobo catches the calls. Problem having now is that the robo callers are now using a private number you can't see so you have to answer your phone. I had a hospital call me one morning to let me know that my husbands surgery had been cancelled and it came up as a private number so I didn't answer the phone and ended up driving 35 miles to find out no surgery due to hipaa laws they can't leave a message. If the phone company wants to stop the blocking then bye bye land line and I will go to cell phone only I don't want to have to do this but it will leave me no chose.

Thank you and have a great day

Hello.

Even though I'm on the Do Not Call list, I am literally plagued by telemarketing and robot calls. Every day, day in and day out. Since I signed up with nomorobo.com, the calls have decreased considerably, but a lot of them slip through. It is maddening! I am very appreciative of nomorobo.com and the service they offer. I would suggest that if you were to aggressively enforce the Do Not Call laws, there might not be a need for services like nomorobo.com. I would be very happy to review my call logs with you so you can see for yourself the frequency of these obnoxious, unsolicited, and most definitely unwanted calls.

we recieve 4-8 calls per day from companies asking for donations and trying to tell us that our computer needs repair. I have called and registered with the DNC(do not call). That does not work. I hate robocalls. I never answer my phone because of them and have missed calls I care about. I really feel that my right to privacy is being invaded by them.

Please make it easier for robocall blocking companies to interface with telephone companies and block even more of these annoying, unwanted calls.

Linda French

I am a great supporter of robocall blocking products. I think that every phone service should allow these products to be installed so that these annoying calls can be blocked. For the past year I have had one of these products installed and been delighted each time I didn't have to take my time to answer an unnecessary call. With the ability of these individuals, organizations, and companies to overwhelm you with these calls its imperative that the consumer have the ability to install a robocall blocking product on their phone. Also, this reduces the chances that someone can become the victim of some scam that many of these calls offer. If they have a right to call you then you, the consumer, should have an equal right to cancel them out.

Robocalls are an unwanted disruption of my time using my phone that I pay for. The robocall feature has been great and I would like to see it continue.

I work from home on documents that take a great deal of concentration. The numerous interruptions from callers that have no connection to me is disruptive, slowing my work. I signed up for the Do Not Call Registry as soon as it was instituted, but many calls got through. Nomorobo has reduced the number of calls, but the phone still has to ring twice (an unwelcome interruption to my work), and a good number still get through. Yes, I have caller ID, and when it says "unknown name, unknown number," I do not answer (resulting in 4 rings I must listen to), or i just take the phone off the hook (then have to remember to replace it). All interruptions. PLEASE do not facilitate unsolicited marketing calls to my residence by taking away the few restraining efforts we have. In fact, PLEASE give us, or permit to be developed, even better ways to eliminate such calls.

Elizabeth Foley

I wholeheartedly support the effort to stop robocalling. It is a blight on our society. Every month I pay for the right to have a telephone to communicate with those parties that I choose. Robocallers have NO RIGHT to abuse the use of my telephone services.

Federal regulators have take action to limit the plague of debt collectors and telephone marketers personally call and abuse citizens with their terror tactics. These companies are now using robocall services, most notably 1-800 Service to hide behind and continue their assault on citizens who have no defense and no way to stop this abuse.

PLEASE TAKE ACTION NOW!!!!

John E. MacDonald

Why does it always take another Pearl Harbor to open the eyes of seemingly intelligent people? If you represent the people, as your titles imply, you won't hesitate to insulate us from these mass marketing scammers and you'll give us the freedom of choice that we pay for and deserve.

Telephone customers ought to have the right to block any unwanted call. I have been a part of the National No-Call List and my state No-Call List since their respective inceptions, but they have become largely irrelevant to determined offenders, and ineffectual for citizens. If we cannot keep unwanted solicitors from repeatedly hounding us over our telephone lines that we are paying for, and that you are authorized to regulate, then what are we paying for, and what are you doing about it?

Lees Summit, Missouri

The elderly are victims to these robot calls and telemarketing scams. They are unaware how new technology can rip them off with no recourse to undue the damage. I try to educate them but they are very elderly and do not retain the information taught.

Dani Roda

The only sorts of calls which individual consumers SHOULDN'T be able to block are public safety calls, such as from the fire department or the police.

The more and diverse kinds of interruption prevention and nuisance avoidance products there are, the better, due to competition and the obvious need for them. The FCC should not attempt to restrict this, because consumers will clearly benefit from it.

Since signing up for nomorobo, our life has been much more peaceful without the constant interruption of unwanted marketing calls. There were times when our telephone would ring twenty times a day. For people who are retired like my wife and I, it is an intrusion into our personal privacy that is terribly upsetting. For the government (FCC) to limit robocall blocking in any way would be a tremendous mistake. Why do you think the "no call" lists were instituted in the first place? So people would not be subjected to unwanted solicitation calls. The only reason the robo blocking techniques are necessary is because unscrupulous maketing individuals continue to blatantly ignore the desires of the people on those "no call" lists. The fact that this issue is even up for discussion is incredible.

On any given day, our home receives at least 1 robocall and often-- especially around election times and holidays-- 5 or 6 in a day, most as we are trying to eat dinner. PLEASE insist that phone companies continue to enable customers to block robocalls! If we were to lose our ability to block these annoying calls, we would choose to drop our land line and just rely on cell phones. I suspect the phone company would not want that result. Thank you.

Deborah Brouse

As good-intentioned as it was, the Do Not Call list no longer works. Our land line plus our cell phones are on it, but with robo and scammer calls coming from around the world, often via disposable U.S. lines, the list has become unpoliceable.

We decided to eliminate our land line because we were fed up with the barrage of robocalls and scams - 95% or more of our incoming calls are crap. They are a daily annoyance, often several times per day. However, our provider -- Verizon FIOS -- said it would charge us more for our internet and TV if we got rid of our land line. It was cheaper to keep the land line, but that meant we'd have to endure all the calls that the Do Not Call list fails to block. Then we found Nomorobo. Fortunately, FIOS supports the simultaneous ring feature, which Nomorobo requires in order to intercept all the calls that we don't want. Once I turned on simultaneous ring last year, we got relief. If any calls slip through, we can report them to Nomorobo, which promptly adds them to its database. To top it off, Nomorobo is free!

Any providers who say current laws prevent them from offering blocking aren't credible because blocking is already widely available via cell phones, services like Nomorobo, and call blocking devices.

The existence of the Do Not Call list demonstrates that the U.S. government intends to protect its citizens from largely illegal calls. It, therefore, stands to reason that the government should also support blocking alternatives that are essentially other versions of the Do Not Call list. Those of us who use these far more effective blocking options should be able to keep them, and those who don't have them should have access to them.

Thank you for requesting feedback about robocalls and blocking products. It is a subject that hits home for everyone, you as well as the rest of us, so it deserves this attention.

Robocalls interrupt my home life, caring for an alzheimers patient. I DON'T LIKE THE INTERRUPTIONS WHEN I'm TRYING TO KEEP MY WIFE CALM, AND EVERY TIME THE PHONE RINGS SHE GETS UPSET, AND WHEN I GET UPSET OVER THE REDICULOUS PHONE CALL, SHE GETS UPSET ALSO, BUT I CAN SHAKE IT OFF IN MOMENTS, SHE STAYS UPSET FOR SEVERAL MINUTES, TO AN HOUR OR MORE.

"Nomorobo" is the best thing since the invention of the Telemarketer. Please let the public continue to block these calls. Telemarketing calls are out of control and we should have the right to block any call we want. I am on the National DO NOT CALL LIST, but that does not stop these calls. Even after telling them that I am on the Do Not Call List, they ignore the list and continue to call. The focus should be on stopping unsolicited telemarketing calls. not on stopping the blocking of these calls.

Since my personal info was stolen from Chase website in summer 2014 I have been getting 50+- spam email and 10+- robo calls a day. I am elderly and it isn't as easy for me to get to the phone as it used to be. I know the only purpose of these calls and emails is to steal from me! I'm not sure of its purpose, but it has come to my attention that the nation's attorney general's have banded together to request that robocalling be made an easier practice to pursue. I perceive this as an infringement on my right to privacy, and ask you to deny its request. If anything, the FCC should be looking to strengthen laws to permit individual citizens to determine to what extent they wish to be communicated with from any entity, much less telemarketers, robocallers, and the like.

Thank you.

The blocking of phone calls - all call that you do not want to listen and delete- should be at the discretion of the payer of the phone bill.

As far as I'm concerned that should include political calls....the 1 year of campaigning for most politicians can drive a person crazy.

Marc and Lee Ann

Cell service is not always unlimited. Consumers at for calls they receive as well as those they make. Unsolicited robocalls are essentially theft, stealing a person's paid cell time. They eat up network bandwidth, causing prices to rise for everyone. They often are phishing, scams or other forms f fraud, as well. They cost the people who make them very little, but are a huge resource and time waster for recipients. The robocall sales and phishing industry is a parasite on the cellular network. Give consumers back the ability to control who calls them. Allow, even encourage, robocall blocking, and increase penalties for spammers and phishers who use this method to perpetrate their fraud.

I absolutely, without a doubt, HATE robocalls. They're annoying, disruptive, and an invasion of my privacy. I have my phone number on the Do Not Call list, but I still get these robocalls. Why is that? It should be against the law!

Please enact legislation to stop the robocalls. I currently have Nomorobo installed, and it's been wonderful! Please do not allow the phone companies to permit robocalls!!!!

Alamo, CA

I hate robot phone calls. Blocking should be allowed.

Neal Hansen
Tucson, Arizona

I call upon you to outlaw robocalling, and that includes robocalls from political candidates or ballot measure campaigns. I also ask you to ban ALL telemarketers from calling people who don't want those calls. The Do Not Call Registry should apply to ALL telemarketers, whether they're simply organizations conducting surveys or businesses selling products.

Walter Ballin
Chico, CA

The FCC created a do not call list and it was a great idea.

The random calls I received went down dramatically.

Now I get robocalls 5-10 a day from Texas, Florida, Washington state, and Kansas. Please allow the consumer to put a stop to these annoying calls.

A suggestion would be, if you're on the do not call list, this also applies to robocalls. It's that simple.

Let's do something quickly and NOW.

Milford, NH

Robocalls are vary annoying. They call even though we are on the do not call list. Blocking the robocalls are one of the ways to stop the unwanted calls.

Jeff Ortinau
Shorewood, Illinois

My wife and I are retirees who have been on the DO NOT CALL LIST since it's inception. We are harassed by these robo calls day and night - from as early as 7am to after 8:30 in the evening - both during the week and on weekends. If I answer one and tell them we are on the list we frequently get a response such as "How's that working for you?". "NOMOROBO" has been helpful in catching many of these calls on the first ring but these bums come up with new combinations as fast as the phony numbers are identified. We need more effective regulations and legislation to stop these practices - not less as the phone companies seem to want. We need NOMOROBO!!!!

Mac & Donna Mann

It's phone, and my time wasted listening to someone I don't want to hear from. I'll make the call if I need a mortgage, solar panels, college classes, etc.

We need to have call blocking!!! Just the other day we received 6 unwelcomed phone calls that Nomorobo handled for us. These calls are relentless!!! AARP suggested this service for their senior membership. So glad we signed up. Please let the terrific Nomorobo call blocking service continue!
Thanks -

Robocalls are an invasion of our privacy.

Robocall blocking products like Nomorobo are a godsend.

Larchmont, NY

Please, please, please outlaw any and all robocalls..I get at least 5 or 6 EVERY day and they are supposedly blocked from my phone by Verizon. There seems to be no end to these things. They are disruptive, a waste of my time and energy and make life miserable for those of us home most days.

Cathy Hardymon
Garden Grove, Ca.

Think of robocalls as a quality of life issue. I receive 3 to 5 of these annoying interruptions--because that's what they are--every day; that's more than 1,000 calls each year. And they always come during evening or weekend family time hours. I don't need or want any of them.

Wesley Hills, NY

I am very tired and annoyed at the constant unwanted interruptions on my home phone. I would like to reserve my phone for people who I choose to talk to, family and friends. I feel the robocalls are very intrusive that invade my personal time with my family.

Patti

Can you imagine what a mess E-mail would be without “spam” filters?

The ability to “block” robo calls and illegal telemarketing from overseas should be up to the customer. NOT the telephone provider. The FCC should make telephone companies provide “Simultaneous ringing” by default in order to make this happen.

Also: Is Julia Forte of 800notes.com “in bed” with the telephone companies?

Did you know that she blocks any mention of nomorobo.com on her sites? Yep, she does! There are ways around it though. But posters are forced to spell n0m0r0b0 using zeros, or to leave spaces between the letters in order to have their comments show up!

Tired off all the Robo-calls we are getting. What a waste of resources.

Los Altos, CA

These calls are very annoying and disruptive. All day long the phone rings.

Please help us stop these calls. Each home should have a product to help eliminate this nuisance. Life is stressful enough without this non-stop phone ringing. My phone # is on the Do Not Call list, but this has done nothing to help this situation. I am thinking of disconnecting my home phone line.

Linda Rose

Stop the RoboCalls!

In my experience robocalls are an unwanted harassment that I detest and should be outlawed. Robocall blocking products should be allowed and all phone owners should be made aware of them and encouraged to use them to get rid of all of the nuisance calls we are bombarded with daily if not hourly.

Please allow Nomorobo to continue offering this valuable service if you cannot outlaw robocalls entirely.

Woodbridge, VA

I refuse to answer my landline anymore because of all the unwanted calls that are made to it. I always screen by letting my answering machine pick up. It is ridiculous. I feel held hostage to these unwanted calls.

Please give me the ability to block them. Being on the Do Not Call list is basically a joke.

Stop robocalls

My elderly father lives with us and even though we tell him not to answer the phone, he does it anyway. It's just a matter of time before he falls and really hurts himself. Robo calls are more than an annoyance, they are also potentially dangerous.

Sean McGarvey

No sales robo calls..only political.

Sunnyvale, CA

We are very tired of Robo calls. When we pick up these calls, it is very clear there is silence on the line for 3-4 seconds after which someone on the other end knows a human picked up and then the heavy sales begin.

Worse still they call repeatedly every day or after a few hours each day.

For lack of having the ability to disown a telephone line, we should have the ability to have this nuisance of Robo Calling stopped!!!

Sai Ramamoorthy
Sunnyvale, CA

we get on average 3 or 4 calls a day. these robocalls are very annoying, especially if my wife is taking a nap, it will wake her up when the phone rings. Sometimes, when I answer the line is dead. Sometimes, a voice says "goodby" and hangs up, and other times it is a vendor selling Air Duct Cleaning, or a General Contractor looking for business. I have put my name on the do not call list, and it doesn't seem to stop these people. I'd like to prevent these robocalls calls from ringing on my phone, and not have to pay the phone company extra money for the privilege of not getting these junk phone calls! It is almost like the phone company is making it easy for these robocallers so the phone company can generate extra revenue by making us pay for an extra service to stop the calls. Please compel the phone company to allow me to selectively block these calls for no extra charge.

For the last few years the calls from unwanted Robocallers have been so bad that we have our phone only ring 2 rings before the answering machine picks up. If we don't recognize the number we don't answer.

I have been on The Do Not Call List for over 10 years, and it doesn't stop the calls. I do Not know how these people ever got our number, it's unlisted, and that also doesn't stop the callers.

The phone costs me a lot of money, and I do Not want to constantly be bothered by people trying to sell me things I don't want, I would never buy from a phone solicitor.

I and everyone hate these people!!! Make the phone companies put a stop to them. Please!!!

Robocalls & call centers trying to squeeze an extra penny out of their seat-time trying to sell me solar, medical devices, medical class action participation, home improvements, credit help ad nauseum, 'forced' to accept non-profit and political calls as some bonehead idea of forced First Amendment/public service rights... 90% of the calls we get.

It's MY phone service to be used at MY discretion. I should not have to invest time and effort in creating my own call-forwarding phone-spam dump.

Caller ID spoofing should be as illegal, enforced, and easier to spot than illegal radio operations. Essentially it is SPAM, pure and simple. Disturbingly time-wasting unfilterable SPAM.

This insanity simply must STOP. SIMPLY MUST STOP. PERIOD.

It should be my First Amendment right to NOT be forced to deal with other's crap.

Part of the issue is also information sharing and hidden conditional automatic approval for vendors and stores we use selling off our demographics and contact information. OPT-IN must be selectable, NOT default, NOT hidden and NOT a condition of doing business with someone or getting a discount they make back for a lifetime of harassment. OPT-OUT must be the NORM/default, not conditional.

Being 'connected' is nice. Being harassed and abused is not. It's bullying, hate, unkind, WRONG.

All of my complaints about Do Not Call and to the FCC complaint form seem a waste of time. We're paying you for... what?

FIX THIS - NOW!

Jim Aspinwall

I think the FCC should regulate and/or ban robo calls. We have been invaded with a deluge of robo calls. The FCC, as a government agency is not allowed to enter my home.

We are, nevertheless bombarded by a bevy of Salespersons, and others asking for donations to questionable causes. Still others call to tell me about get rich quick scams. All of these people enter my home without my permission via the telephone. This has gotten out of hand. As individuals, we should have the right to block robo calls.

As the regulatory agency, the FCC has the duty to take action to block robo calls.

Sunnyvale, CA

Please permit blocking of unwanted calls! The calls from "Rachel", etc. are intrusive, time-consuming, and annoying. The same applies to the callers claiming to be "from IT" or "from Microsoft Windows support. And the calls from... the list goes on and on and on. Any product that can filter out these intrusions and scammers will be most welcome.

Ricahrd B. Emerson
Skippack, PA

I think that all citizens should have the right to privacy via all methods of communication. I also believe that robocalls should be optional. The consumer should control who calls them, who they call, and in general who they communicate with. It is not the business of the FCC or any government agency to tell me or anyone else how we should use our devices or what we choose to do with them. The people we communicate, thats our business not the governments or a third party. I could go on for days over this issue.

Connor Kempf

The robocalls and marketing calls outnumber our real calls by more than 10 to 1, to the point where we often just don't pick up the phone, unless we're sitting by it and see a caller ID we recognize.

These lousy calls interrupt our thoughts and our work, calling us to another room or down off a ladder or whatever. It is a real cost to us and to our way of life.

They're more damaging even than spam, and like spam they reduce the utility of the communication system drastically.

I want them STOPPED!!

We are told not to give out our personal information over the phone to people we do not know. Robo calls are unsolicited and prey on you.

Robocallers always try to get your personal and credit card details.

There is no reason at all to put who calls a person totally in the control of the caller rather than the one being called. If the phone carriers say they aren't permitted to block robocalls or give consumers the ability to do that, then please make it explicitly known to them that they can.

There's no one in this country that enjoys getting these calls. Allowing us to block them is a no-brainer.

It's time to stop these calls!! They are constant and misleading. Many say to "Press 2" to stop receiving the calls. This is just a way to let whomever is calling that they have reached an active number. They also tie up lines, and many of the calls come through on a daily basis. I am on the No Call List for both my home phone and cellphone, but this makes no difference.

Please do something to stop these calls.

I've been blocking calls with "Nomorobo" from my home phone line for over a year. Now that I've gone back to work, these marketing calls have become a huge problem, taking valuable time away from our small staff. Simply put, productivity goes way down when one of us must take the time to answer the call, determine that it is yet another marketer, and then try again to focus on the business that was interrupted. A small business such as ours does not have a receptionist to answer our phones: we must multitask and these continuous calls are a big burden as we try to become profitable.

lynn heinz

I HATE the constant calls. HATE IT. Does that sum it up?

Every single day I get robocalls or calls from what should be on my D.N.D. list.

Forget about requesting to remove a number. It only adds you to a list of active numbers to call.

I can't imagine that the members of the FCC can be blinded to the point of thinking the DND list would work. There are unscrupulous people out there willing to ruin my day- 5, 10, 15 times a day!!! with their calls for medical devices, medical insurance, phony products, phony approvals etc.

I specifically requested I don't want to be called. Yet ever single damn day, I get calls, including Sunday's and holidays.

I WANT EVERY OPPORTUNITY TO BLOCK THESE CALLS OR YOU SHOULD FIND A WAY TO MAKE THEM STOP!!!!!!

I have update no call list several time and they are still calling. Now i don't even pick up my LAN line and let the phone screen all the call. People we know only call our cell. If isn't because of our DSL, we already cut of the LAN line long time ago.... so please do something .

We should be able to control the phones we pay for by having the ability to block unwanted calls. Specifically, robocalls should be blocked at the phone owners discretion. So many of these calls are from questionable sources and are nuisances in our daily living.

We are both retired and the sometimes hourly interruptions are disturbing and distressing.

Please tell the phone companies to enable blocking for the consumers who are paying for their services.

Gambrills, MD

The calls are annoying to say the list. I immediately hang up on them and have never accepted any "offer" I have been offered. If I wanted any of those services I would call a reliable business that I knew to be a good company, not choosing a business that has to try to find customers.

I have no problem with my bank contacting me. However, this is why they have my land line number and not my cell phone number. There calls for legitimate reasons do not cost me anything on my land line but would on my cell phone. Not to mention that these robo calls to my cell phone could be disruptive while I am driving or at work.

This is an invasion of privacy and my time. I have a land line and a cell phone for my convenience not for some company to harass me.

Please do everything possible to make robocall blocking programs AVAILABLE to everyone.

I'm sick & tired of all of the "robocalls". Fortunately I have caller ID & don't answer calls when I do not know who is calling where they are 800 numbers, unknown name, unknown number, etc., but they are annoying rings. I welcome a free service to block these type of calls. I

I think we should have robo call blocking

Massachusetts

I don't need my days, nights or meals interrupted by a robo call.

Besides my freedom of receiving NO speech, these calls cost ME money on my phone bill. I do not have an unlimited plan because I can't afford it. These calls get charged against my minutes and sometimes the calls go on and on with the spiel from the caller. And in my case, most of those calls are fraudulent or offer exorbitantly priced services that I can't afford even if I did want them.

Nomorobo allows me the freedom to save the expense to ME when the calls connect to my phone.

Thank you for your consideration

I'm so annoyed with those robocalls I'd like to discontinue the phone service. They always call when I'm in the middle of other things - they are very annoying. I've had experience with a service that I received as a result of one of those calls and I am very disgusted with the results. NEVER AGAIN.

I think robocalls are an invasion of privacy and highly annoying. They come all day long plying any and everything from A to Z. Sometimes, there are several calls from one source during a single day and the Do Not Call list does not address this problem. I urge the FCC to require the phone companies to offer blocking products at no cost to us consumers.

WHY do I have to be disturbed by annoying marketing calls? No reason! Other than you allow it. If I want something, I'll research it. If I want information on a candidate, I'll research it. If I want to donate. Forget that, I don't have money to. I'm part of the working poor. In short, I don't want to be disturbed by unrequested calls. I want the choice to block them, all that I choose to block. Sincerely, Fritz

Charles Ilgenfritz

Are you kidding me.....the FCC is going to allow 'robo' calls!

Reasons Why Not To Allow Calls:

- 1). Invasion of privacy
- 2). Insult to a persons intelligence
- 3). Trespassing on a phone customers property
- 4). Intrusive
- 5). The right to choose who is allowed to call you on your private phone!

Whoever, in the FCC agency, is going to give the 'okay' for these companies to continue 'robo' calling should be FIRED! And, I will find out who and get a petition going from all Americans to get this person/s or department/s FIRED!

pls stop the robot calls, they don't help anyone and don't really provide any good to anyone.

sunnyvale, CA

The use of robo calling by vendors is actually a potential cause of problems. Since there are so many I no longer answer the phone directly letting all calls to go to voice mail. Since the robo callers typically don't leave a message they automatically get filtered. Unfortunately all calls which should be answered directly do not. If the phone company fails to forward the voice mail promptly it delays the return call- a potential issue if the phone was for an immediate problem- lost kid, kid injured, ... Believe me that the phone companies sometimes deliver voice mail hours to days after being posted!

Richard Altekruise

Robocallers need to be stopped! After getting caller ID, I discovered how many scammers are actually trying to contact me. Now, by blocking many of these calls to me (from outfits trying to sell me, a senior citizen, "pain medications" etc.), Nomorobo has made a definite difference in my life.

I have been receiving many unwanted robocalls, even though I am on the do not call list. Ive been using a service called "nomorobo" to help prevent these annoying and unwanted calls. I understand that there are powers which wish to block such services. Please do not allow them to do this. Please help block these calls and all other unsolicited calls to those on the do not call list, and enforce punishment for those who ignore the wishes of the list's subscribers.

Let's get something done about unwanted calls, over and over and over again.
Sick of running for the phone (thinking it's important) and getting one of these annoying calls. It's our right to "opt out" of these unwanted calls; please help us to do this!

I must keep the robot call out of my life. At 87 I have enough problems without those bloody calls.

Who is paying off the FCC to block our right to peace and quiet?

Thank you for your efforts .

Elinor Marshall

I've been using Nomorobo for months and love how it handles the telemarketers and provides me some relaxation from having to answer the phone while eating dinner or resting after a long day at work. Although I've been on the "do not call list" for years, they still call and bother my household. Thanks to Nomorobo, that has ceased; although I know I still get telemarketing calls because I get the single ring followed by silence. I don't even bother getting up until the phone rings twice.

I am on both the National & Florida do not call list. Both are jokes. They do absolutely nothing. I have been using NOMOROBO ever since it first came out. It really works. I pay a great deal for my phone. Why should I be flooded with hundreds of un-wanted ROBO calls who pay absolutely nothing for using MY phone? This must be stopped.

Robert Harbison
Tampa, FL

Computer dialed calls have always been a nuisance but the better word is disturbance. If I require goods or services I will establish contact to the outfit of my choosing. I honestly couldn't decipher if my joining the donotcall.gov list when it was formed had any impact whatsoever (If it did it surely isn't working now)! If my family hadn't had the same landline telephone number for thirtyfive years we would have long gotten rid of it solely because of these unwelcome calls. Thanks to our joining of nomorobo.com for about one year now we are still plagued daily by these ridiculous calls but Nomorobo solely stops these calls at the first ring which we can live with!

Dear Federal Communications commisioner:

I am paying for the telephone services provided by Telephone; therefore, I respectfully request the phone companies to provide robocall bloacking solutions to my telephone number.

Since, both robo calls and emergency agency calls are delivered by machines, telephone users may unintentionnally interrupt the receipt of a life-saving emergency message---something that shoud never be allowed to occur. My wife and I are pushing 90, so the next robocall that interferes with an emergency call, may cause a mishap.

Joe Ripley

We been using nomorobo for almost a year now it's great we love it. It has stopped a bunch of pest calls scam calls.

My wife's elder parents almost got taken for $4000 by the scam IRS calls how about our government work on shutting those people down. I also added her parents on Nomorobo after that incident. Me and my wife also been getting the IRS scam calls but nomorobo put a stop to it. I also referred friends and family to nomorobo.com they also love.

No let's talk about the so called major carries such as let's see Directv who calls around 20 times a day and that's after you tell them to stop calling. We support Nomorobo 100% and love it.

Please allow me to control who I want to do business with. There needs to be more arrests and harsher penalties that flagrantly break the law. Those investigations need to be expedited faster, that is why these criminals think they can break the law without consequences.

Robo calls are an intrusion in my home and an invasion of my privacy!

Since I pay for the phone service - why should the company refuse to protect my privacy at my request?

My phone service is provided by a cable company. Cable companies operate virtually as monopolies.
Consumers should have some RIGHTS!!
